

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY IN CAIRO

---

School of Global Affairs and Public Policy

WELCOME FROM THE DEAN

I would like to welcome all current and new undergraduate and graduate students to our School of Global Affairs and Public Policy. The school encompasses three academic departments: law, public policy and administration, and journalism and mass communication. In addition, it runs five diverse research centers and programs covering a wide range of topics including: gender and women's studies, electronic journalism, Middle East studies, American studies, migration and refugee studies, as well as the GAPP Executive Education program. We are here to offer our students a unique opportunity to develop a comprehensive overview of the main strategic issues that are of great concern to world citizens today. We are here to help our students develop the skills to work in the public domain and be competent professionals contributing to more effective public policymaking on both the local and international levels.

Ambassador Nabil Fahmy
Founding Dean, School of Global Affairs and Public Policy

VISION

To be the premier School of Global Affairs and Public Policy in the Middle East and Africa, producing highly competent and knowledgeable professionals capable of quality decision making and execution on matters of public concern — domestically, regionally and globally

MISSION

Our mission is to prepare our graduates to take the lead in shaping the future of their nations and the world at large, with a strong belief in the complementarity of international and public affairs, an unwavering commitment to ethics and the rule of law, and a recognition of the unique role that the media plays in shaping public policies.

Our core disciplines in law, journalism and mass communication, and public policy and administration provide our graduates with solid professional and analytical competencies based on a multidisciplinary academic foundation. Our academic and research centers and programs provide graduates with analytical tools, and offer students and faculty members field experience in the context of a broad global perspective to support high-quality research, multidisciplinary policymaking and participatory dialogue on questions in the public domain. Our location in Egypt, at the crossroads of Africa, Asia and Europe, immerses our graduates and faculty members in an environment of cross-cultural diversity and exposes them to numerous world-shaping social, economic and political developments.

FOUR MAIN GOALS OF GAPP

Education: Provide high-quality education in public policy, public administration, law, mass communication, journalism, Middle East studies, gender and women's studies, migration and refugees studies, and American studies

Research: Produce and disseminate important high-impact research on matters of national, regional and international concern

Training: Provide top-notch executive training to professionals in several of the school's different academic disciplines

Outreach: Initiate policy dialogue on issues pertinent to the region, provide policy advice to decision makers, disseminate research results and act as a platform for linking between various schools and research centers concerned with public affairs in the region and worldwide

GUIDING PRINCIPLES AND VALUES

- Integrity
- Objectivity
- Freedom of speech

GAPP CORE COMPETENCIES

What GAPP want our students to develop through the various programs:

- Critical analytical skills
- Global perspective
- Quality research skills
- Effective communication skills
- Public policy orientation
- Multi-interdisciplinary focus
- Professional experience

RESEARCH

GAPP produces and disseminates important high-impact research on matters of national, regional and international concern through the joint efforts of both its faculty members and students.

OUTREACH

The school's outreach efforts aim at initiating policy dialogue on issues pertinent to the region, providing policy advice to decision makers, disseminating research results and acting as a platform for linking between various schools and research centers concerned with public affairs in the region and worldwide. Two main tools for achieving that end are publications and public events.

PUBLICATIONS

- Cairo Review of Global Affairs, a quarterly journal published by GAPP, scheduled to debut in January 2011.
- GAPP Occasional Papers Series (yet to be launched).

SEMINARS AND PUBLIC LECTURES

- GAPP Public Policy Lecture Series started with the official inauguration of the school in February 2009 and hosts a wide group of international scholars, policy makers, practitioners and influential figures.
- GAPP Public Seminars discuss various contemporary and controversial issues that are of concern locally, regionally and globally.

GAPP Executive Education

The mission of GAPP Executive Education (ExecEd) is to provide education and training opportunities that enhance leadership capacities within government agencies, public institutions, civil society and the media within Egypt and the surrounding region. This is currently achieved through its:

- Advanced Public Policy Management Program (APPM)

This is GAPP's Executive Education flagship program, which is offered annually and aims at matching the needs of different public organizations advocating or implementing policy decisions by providing innovative solutions and creative methods for addressing the challenges of the 21st century.

- Customized Programs

Programs tailored to the specific needs of clients including:

- Introduction to public administration in Egypt (including site visits)
- Gender mainstreaming (including site visits)
- Advanced management and communication skills for public officials
- Advanced research skills for government research centers

- Open-Enrollment Programs

Programs offered in collaboration with partner institutions in light of current trends and needs including:

- Trends in regulatory frameworks
- Strategic planning and performance management for public organizations
- Best practices in communicating your message

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

GAPP is a school that is still growing. Over the next few years, the school will be making a number of changes in the programs offered, adding new academic and executive training specializations, as well as increasing output that enhances the quality and scope of what the school has to offer. These changes will enable GAPP to meet stakeholders' needs and expectations and to have a better impact on the policymaking process in the region.
